Storms cause flash floods

but minimal damage

Heavy thunderstorms once again erupted across Southwest Idaho last week dousing heavy rains around the area. High winds ripped through the valley on several nights last week, but minimal damage was reported.

A week ago today (Wednesday) the National Weather Service issued a severe thunderstorm warning for central Owyhee County at 5:15 p.m. The storm was located south to southeast of Silver City.

On Thursday, the banks of Sage Creek south of Homedale filled with a huge amount of water from a flash flood. Nearby homes were threatened of flooding and a section of Nicholson Road was damaged. Flooding was also reported at Jump Creek.

Intense rainfall in some locations prompted the National Weather Service to issue flash flood watches and warnings in Oregon and Idaho. A storm that moved across the Owyhee Mountains dumped a half-inch of rain in a very short period south of Silver City.

A series of storms dropped about two inches of rain within an hour near the northern Elmore County town of Atlanta. The storms were tracking over an area recently hit by wildfire, and forecasters worried that would increase the chances of flooding there.

This week’s weather looks to be much calmer with only slight chances of evening and afternoon thundershowers. Temperatures are expected to be below normal this week with highs in the 80s and lows in the 50s.

Sage Creek flooded its banks Thursday evening.

Debris plugged a culvert on Sage Creek, as flash flood waters spread out over adjacent land.

High winds Thursday evening knocked a tree limb over on a vehicle on the corner of Montana Avenue and Sixth Street in Homedale.

Bow hunter education classes being formed

A bow hunting class is starting in July and instructors are looking for students. The classes will begin on July 12 and run through the 24 in Homedale.

First time bow hunters are required to successfully complete a state-authorized bow hunter education course before they can hunt with a bow in Idaho. Students must be 12 years old and have successfully completed a hunter education course.

Classes will be held at the Armory on Nevada Avenue in Homedale beginning on July 12 followed by classes on the 14, 16, 20, and 22. The last day of the class will be on July 24. Each class will begin at 6 p.m. and will run until 8:30 p.m. except the final class, which will begin at 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. or until the class is complete. The cost is $8 per student.

Pre-registration will be on July 8 and 9 from 6:30 p.m. until 8 p.m. at the Armory.

care of people and this is how I can share my compassion with others.”

But taking care of people medically is not the only way Perkins plans to give himself to humanity; he said his main goal is to become a priest when his military career ends. Perkins said his military career is one-step- ping stone in accomplishing his goal. He said with out it he might not have had to opportunity to get a college education.

In speaking of the conflict in Iraq, Perkins said the military does not train its personnel to treat people like what he has seen in reports from Iraq. He said no one in the army supports what has been publicized on the prisoner abuse.

“We have been trained not to do that,” Perkins said of the recent incidents. “Regardless of what they say, the army does not train its personnel to abuse prisoners. I have done basic training and advanced training and we were trained how to treat prisoners right. It does not matter if you are ordered to or not, there is no excuse for abusing anyone like that. “There are a lot of good things that we are doing in Iraq. The majority of the Iraqi people want us there. There is only one small area where these things happen it is called the Suni Triangle. It is where Saddam Hussein grew up. The people who live there are Suni’s. They have been in power for a very long time. It is hard for people to go from being the most powerful people in the area to no longer being in power.”

Perkins said he will be stationed in Iraq for about one year.

Semanko said the group ar- rived on Tuesday and returned to Washington D.C. on Friday. He said while they were here, they took part in two full days of close-up looks at a variety of Southwestern Idaho water related issues, complete with a series of detailed briefings.

“The halls of congress are a long way from the waters of Idaho and that can often result in a real disconnect when it comes to water related legislation important to Idaho,” Semanko said. “We’ve found the answer is to give those staffers in key influential posts a first hand look at just what’s involved. This educational approach has proven extremely successful in raising the visibility and understanding of Idaho water issues.”

Marsing folks win Doodlebug contest

Three Marsing folks are a little richer this week after their doodlebug crossed the finish line in first, second and third place during Marsing's Fourth of July events held on Saturday.

Gay Varner won $500, Rob Troxel won $250 and Lamon Loucks won $100. The Marsing Chamber of Commerce sponsors the event and coordinators said enough money was raised by ticket sales, donation cans and other income to cover the cost of the fireworks display and the contest.

The Lion's Club served over 300 people dinner during the annual fundraiser. Volunteers served prime rib, salads and a variety of homemade desserts throughout the evening.

Following the contest and the dinner, a fireworks light show was put on at the Marsing Island Park. Several hundred people gathered to watch the nearly one hour display.

Lowell Patrick from central Florida has been visiting his cousin, Rolly Patrick at Devil Creek Ranch. Lowell lived in this country until 1928 when his father was killed. After that he lived in Weiser, Idaho where he owned a store for 23 years. He now makes beautiful clocks, banjos and other things from wood.

Earl and Mary Grace Elmer of Melba, Idaho have been visiting their son Joe and family on the 7 Triangle Ranch.

Bert and Paula Brackett attended the wedding of Kim Lanting and Jim Jacobs last Saturday at the Presbyterian Church with a reception following at the Blue Lakes Country Club. The couple will live at Prairie City, Oregon where the groom has ranching interests.

Jean Cook, Edna Pollard and Lola blossom went to Bruneau June 13th to a barbecue held at the home of Guy and Sherry Colety. It was held in honor of their daughter, Katie who had just graduated from college at Manhattan, Kansas and for Ernesto Juarez who was home on leave from military service in Iraq. Its always fun to go to Bruneau and visit with the neat people there.

On June 14th the Baptist ministers, Dean and David Grindstaff and their families and Doug Luchsinger and Lola Blossom met at the church now held in the old Three Creek store for Memorial Services for Rick Morris. His sisters, Nancy Littlefair from Fairfield, California and Sheila Stahl from Aurora, Illinois, his brother Gordon Morris from Laramie, Wyoming and his aunt Clara Morris from Bruneau, Idaho also attended the service and then at Rick's request his relatives scattered his ashes on Blossom Ranch.

Ruby Pearl Schroeder, 82 of Buhl who had early day roots in Three Creek and Bruneau passed away June 20, 2004 after a long battle with leukemia. She was born December 9, 1921 in Buhl Idaho the daughter of Ruben and Martha Conway Jones. She attended schools in Buhl and graduated from Buhl high school in 1939. She attended Beauty school and was a beautician for several years and was a seasonal employee of Green Giant for 32 years. She married Walter H. Schroeder June 27, 1943 at the Clover Trinity Church. They farmed and ranched south of Buhl for nearly 60 years. She is survived by one daughter, Michele Bohling, two sons Mike (Peggy) Schroeder and Marshall (Debbie) Schroeder and a sister, Doris Robison of Glendale, Arizona, seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her parents and her husband, Walter Schroeder. Her maternal grandfather, Louis Conway was a charter member of the 71 Livestock Association and hauled the mail from Bruneau to Three Creek before it was brought from Rogerson. Her mother was a teacher in the Grassy Hill school. Ruby was a very caring person and brightened many peoples lives by the lovely cards she sent us for birthdays and other occasions. Funeral services were held June 24 at St. John's Lutheran Church in Buhl with burial in the Buhl Cemetery.

We remember John and his wife, Sue and the good food (especially the scalloped potatoes) they would bring to the Father’s Day barbecue held at the Hot Hole.

Doodlebugs

Volunteers help grab doodlebugs from the creek at the Marsing City Park Saturday afternoon during the annual doodlebug contest sponsored by the Marsing Chamber of Commerce.

Fireworks lit the sky over Homedale Sunday night following the annual Demolition Derby. Marsing's fireworks was displayed July 3rd, a tradition of that community.

Prehistoric fishing...

By Brian Flatter, Fisheries
Biologist
Idaho Department of Fish and Game – Southwest Region

Ask any experienced Idaho angler about angling opportunities on the Snake River and they will likely mention one special bottom-dwelling fish. No, I am not referring to a carp or a sucker. Rather, I’m referring to a prehistoric fish that can grow to sizes in excess of nine feet and live 90 years or more; the white sturgeon.

The long-lived fish is slow to reach maturity. White sturgeon spawn near rapids over a rocky bottom when they are between 15 and 30 years of age. Even among mature adults, spawning occurs very infrequently, often only once every ten years. Unfortunately, many of the spawning areas used for cons by these fish have been eliminated or otherwise rendered unsuitable due to construction of dams used for power production and irrigation. The Snake River has become, in the words of former Idaho Governor Cecil Andrus, a working river.

As with several other native fish whose numbers are limited by habitat loss, infrequent spawning, and very few offspring being recruited into their population, white sturgeon are struggling in some parts of the state and are therefore afforded special protection. On the Kootenai River in northern Idaho, sturgeon fishing is no longer allowed as one part of an effort to maintain viable sturgeon populations in the river.

Things have, bit better in our neck of the woods. Sturgeon fishing remains very popular in southwest Idaho, especially between C.J. Strike Dam and Walters Ferry on the Snake River.
While sturgeon fishing is allowed in our corner of the state, special regulations are in place to preserve the species, including barbless hooks only, catch and release only and a strict prohibition against removing sturgeon from the water.

White sturgeon fishing gear is both simple and stout. All it takes is a large barbless hook, a stout rod, a reel spooled with 50-pound mono/filament line, a large piece of fresh carp or crappie meat, and a sinker large enough to keep the bait in one spot on the river bottom. Target deep holes near fast flowing stretches of water. And should you choose to pursue one of these brains, please be considerate of the fish and avoid using stainless steel hooks or any of the new, high-tech braided super lines. All these items break down very slowly if lost on a snag or in a fish’s mouth. There have been cases of sturgeon mortality associated with the use of this type of equipment.

Because of the heavy angling pressure Snake River sturgeon now face, it has become especially important for all of us who enjoy sturgeon angling to obey the rules. These regulations have been put in place to ensure that sturgeon remain a part of the landscape for future generations to enjoy. You’ve no doubt heard about the two large sturgeon poached from the Snake River in recent weeks. While the culprits remain at large, this poaching behavior is damaging to sturgeon populations and takes away from the experiences of other, honest anglers. Replacing those fish in the population will take 30 to 40 years, so not only are these poachers stealing from you and me, they’re also stealing from our children and grandchildren.

All that said, give sturgeon fishing and try and remember to obey the rules. And should you be lucky enough to land one of these giants, please treat it well and release it quickly so others may have the chance to do the same.

The Bureau of Land Management last week gave notice that it is increasing mining claim fees, which by law must be adjusted for inflation based on the Consumer Price Index. The increase affects mining claim location and maintenance fees.

“The is the first mining fee revision since August 1993 and refects a 25 percent increase in the Consumer Price Index since that time,” said Bob Anderson, Deputy Assistant Director for Minerals, Realty and Resource Protection. “Waivers from the maintenance-fee increase are still available for qualified small miners.

The one-time location fee is now $30 for each new mining claim or site. The annual maintenance fee for each claim or site is now $125.

Under a final technical rule pursuant to requirements of the maintenance fee statute (30 U.S.C. 28[j]), adjustments to the fees are made using the Consumer Price Index (CPI), published by the Bureau of Labor and Statistics. The CPI increased by 25 percent from January 1993 through December 30, 2003.
That change was applied to the previous location fee ($25 per claim or site) and maintenance fee ($100 per claim or site) to produce the new fee schedule.

The method for calculating the fee adjustment is specified in the statute, leaving no discretion to the BLM in the adjustment process. For this reason, the BLM is issuing the final technical rule without comment from the public.

The fee adjustments must be published in the Federal Register on or before July 1st in order to be effective on the following September 1st. (See 43 CFR Part 3834, Subpart B for further information. (68 FR 61046, October 27, 2003.)

Copies of the rule are available from BLM State Offices and its Washington, D.C., Office.
In addition, the complete text of the rule has been posted on the BLM’s Internet Home Page (www.blm.gov) and is available for public viewing at the Office of the Federal Register.

There are currently about 290,000 active mining claims on Federal land. The BLM collected $28 million in mining claim fees in fiscal year 2003.

A number of Treasure Valley mourning doves have been found dead in recent weeks, most around bird feeders. “We’ve had a number of calls during the last month from folks reporting dead or dying doves in their neighborhoods,” Fish and Game wildlife veterinarian Dr.
Mark Drew noted. “All the cases have been associated with summer feeding operations, where the birds are artificially concentrated.”

The birds are dying from trichomoniasis, a parasitic disease, which causes sores in the mouth and throat. It eventually prevents the birds from swallowing, leading to death from starvation. Found naturally in pigeons and doves, trichomoniasis poses no health risk to humans, but can be fatal to songbirds, specifically doves. Transmission of the infection is from bird to bird. Where birds are artificially concentrated, such as with a bird feeding operation, transmission can be accelerated. Diseased birds regurgitate contaminated food in the feeding area leading to a spread of the infection to other birds that inadvertently consume contaminated food. “The young of the year are particularly susceptible to the disease,” Drew said. “Their immune systems aren’t able to cope well with the parasite, and they often develop large lessions.”

For more information regarding trichomoniasis, contact Fish and Game’s Nampa office at 465-8465.

Ventura outlasts 35 cars in 2004 derby

Mark “Ace” Ventura, from Homedale, was the overall winner of the 2004 Lion’s Club Demolition Derby last Sunday night when he walked away with the first place trophy, driving the double zero car.

Ventura, who won best looking car two years ago, said he was driving for Alignment Specialist, SIDRA, “who wants you to support the Owyhee Search and Rescue, Lake City International, Indart Farms Inc., Meinke of Caldwell, Six States, and Superior Paint and Glass. He said he also was driving for “Trevor who didn’t help but he’s the best soccer dad in the county.”

Ventura is 42 years old and said the motor in his Geo was a “3 cylinder fuel injected turbo charged and blown running on alcohol.” Ventura got into the finals in a tie for second in the first heat with Matt Freelove and Duane Eoff.

In the second heat, Cody Garrett won a trip to the final in a 1970 Chrysler Newport Custom with a 383 engine, with Bryan “Basque’o Fiasco” Badiola who took second in a 1968 Imperial with a 440 engine.

In heat three, Tyson Stimmell took first above J.L. Perry who drove car number 88. Wendall Gohn placed first in the fourth heat in a 1963 Chrysler Imperial with a 400. John Henry placed second, but was not able to make the championship heat because of engine trouble.

In the championship heat, Bryan Badiola took second place and Duane Eoff won third.

Cook won the consolation heat, which brought 15 cars into the arena.

Jake Ferguson won hardest hit and in the best looking car category, Troy Tiddens won for a second year as the Lion’s Club pick and Dustin Decaney won as the crowd pick.

The winner of the event received $1600, followed by $600 for second and $400 for third.

Coordinators of the event said this year’s derby was a success with a sold out crowd. Nearly 3,000 fans filled the seats at the Owyhee County Rodeo grounds to watch man and car battle for a chance at the final trophy.

Last year’s winner Tee Hurd received a Lion’s Club jacket and several awards were given to young fans. A dance contest was held during intermission before the final heat and a cow-chipping contest was held before the consolation round in which the winner received an extra $50, thanks to Owyhee County Sheriff Gary Aman.
L ast week I slipped off from work, picked up my partner and joined about a hundred other folks to honor Allen Bidwell. Allen retired from the Nampa Police Department eighteen years service.

During the retirement ceremony, Allen and wife Cindy listened as people recognized the brilliance he worked with at NPD called him “L.T.” (short for Lieutenant). From what was said, and the tears that were shed, it was obvious he will be missed.

I was tempted to give the audience my impression of “Precious” (a nickname that goes back a number of years and is a story in itself). But I kept my mouth shut. I knew if I tried to express my feelings I would end up blubbing, too. Guys shouldn’t blubber at a party for a cop.

I could have told them about how I first met Allen about 25 years ago, when I was a reporter for the Home and newspaper at the time. I was the Chief of Police. We hit it off right away. Before long we were getting together the Bidwells for Saturday night Pinochle. Since Cindy had been a student at the high school where my partner taught, it took a little while for her to quit calling her “Mrs. Cornell.” But once they got acquainted Al and I seldom won a card game.

There was the time our family went on vacation. While we were gone, Allen stopped by our house every day while making his rounds and fed Cleo, our Siamese Cat, and let her rub against his blue uniform for a few minutes. He never mentioned he was allergic to cats.

There was the hunting trip in the Owyhees with Al and his grandfather, Spud. I learned that sitting around the stove listening to tall tales and eating camp stew while the wind howled outside the tent can be more satisfying that actually bagging a deer.

Allen and I both changed jobs but that didn’t change our relationship. When our three darling daughters graduated or got married, Al and Cindy were always there to celebrate the events—more like an uncle and aunt than family friends.

I could have spent an hour detailing all the assistance Allen has given us over the years. If we moved, he helped with the heavy work. If I installed a sprinkler system, he showed up to make sure I didn’t run over myself with a trencher. And I have received a lot more help than I have.

I have met a great many people over the years who I consider friends. But there is a difference between friends and Friends (with a capital “F”). A friend is someone you always are glad to see. You say hello, exchange pleasantries, and go your respective ways. A Friend is the person you would want watching your back if your were in a foxhole with bullets flying past your ears—the sort of individual you would trust with your wife, your children and your dog (if you had a good dog). A Friend plays a significant role in your life. I know four people who I put in the Friend category. Allen is one and he introduced me to the other three.

The citizens of Nampa were darn lucky to have Allen Bidwell serve them for 18 years. The citizens of Homedale were darn lucky to have him watch over them for five or six years. I consider myself damn lucky just to know him.

Not important ... but possibly of interest

D.C. type politics in Owyhee County?

It will be election time soon. Some candidates have lost the vision of serving the public by surrendering to pride, greed and the mantle of authority that public officials hold. The relentless assaults of accusations have become so great from some candidates, that it has become difficult to know what they stand for.

I have paid particular attention to the race for Owyhee county sheriff. This race has turned into a one sided “mud slinging” match. The current sheriff, Gary Aman, has shown class, respect, and self-control by not engaging in personal attacks on his opponent, Robert Muse. Mr. Muse, however, has focused all his energy on “anti-Aman” propaganda and never ending personal attacks. Where does it stop? Does anyone know what Mr. Muse stands for?

I have had recent communication with Muse, to find out for myself what he stood for. I was tired of sifting through his “anti-Aman” propaganda. I made it clear that I was not looking for a debate. I simply wanted answers. My questions were clear, e.g. “do you even live in Owyhee County?”, and “how many P.O.S.T. credit hours do you have?” Muse did not have the professionalism or common courtesy to answer my questions. I asked Muse three times to answer my questions. Muse ignored most of my questions and tried to divert my attention by direct- ing more attacks on Sheriff Aman. Muse finally resorted to attacking me. Is this what we want for sheriff? Not! I consider this attitude rude, and unacceptable.

We need a sheriff who is forthcoming and willing to serve us. Muse does not appear to possess these qualities. I did not contact Muse to have him push his propaganda; but that is all I received from him. When I continued to petition Muse for direct answers, he responded, “we are really too far apart to continue this discussion”. How can we have confidence in these kinds of answers? Muse seems more fit for office in Washington D.C., not Owyhee County. There are some who do not agree with Gary Aman; however, we know what he stands for. In today’s world of uncertainty, it gives me comfort knowing that we have a sheriff who works for the citizens of this great county.

Letter to the editor
NOTICE OF HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that THE MARSING CITY COUNCIL WILL HOLD A PUBLIC HEARING AT MARSING CITY HALL ON JULY 21, 2004, commencing at 7:00 p.m., for the PURPOSE OF THE PUBLIC HEARING IS TO DISCUSS THE INCREASE OF WATER DEPOSITS BY MORE THAN 5%.

1. Resolution A-88

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY OF MARSING, IDAHO, ESTABLISHING AMOUNTS FOR WATER SYSTEM DEPOSITS, CHARGES, AND PROVIDING AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

WHEREAS, the City of Marsing, by Ordinance A-81, adopted June 22, 1993, has the authority to impose a water rate based on the City’s domestic water system and charges to reconnected to the water system;

WHEREAS, Resolution A-88 replaces Resolution A-28, which provided for user fees and charges, and is hereby repealed by this resolution;

WHEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MARSING, IDAHO, 83628, that:

SECTION 1. All accounts that become 30 days past due during the month of July, 2004, and for the month of August, 2004, shall pay the charges as shown on their bill, or a 10% service charge, whichever is greater, to avoid a disconnection of service;

SECTION 2. In order to service the City’s domestic water system, a delinquent account must be paid in full together with a charge for restoration of service as shown on the bill;

SECTION 3. All users of the City’s domestic water system shall be required to provide a deposit to the City in an amount of $75.00, to be used to pay for any delinquent fees, charges and penalties;

SECTION 4. This Resolution shall be in full force and effect immediately upon its adoption and approval;

SECTION 5. Any tampering with water meter is a misdemeanor offense;

SECTION 6. Water will only be turned on during regular city employee working hours.

Donald D. Osterhoudt, Mayor

JANICE BICANDI, City Treasurer
